

HOMELAND SECURITY

www.hlsinsideandout.org

FACT SHEET

A weekly public radio program featuring interviews with key leaders at the federal, state and local levels of government, plus senior leaders in the private sector, academic community, and national press.

“Homeland Security Inside & Out” is appointment radio for the homeland security and national security communities, first responders, and all Americans interested in the security of their families. Each week, the one-hour show offers information and practical advice for:

- Top leadership at all levels of government.
- The front offices of corporations.
- Leaders and members of local communities.
- Every household in America.

Co-hosts

- Dave McIntyre, director of the Integrative Center for Homeland Security at Texas A&M University
- Randy Larsen, director of the Institute for Homeland Security, Washington, D.C.

The show’s format

- News Media: Segments in which we ask leading journalists to describe the one homeland security issue we should focus upon during the coming week.
- Inside the Beltway: Interviews with lawmakers, policy makers and opinion makers from the D.C. area.
- Outside the Beltway: Conversations with leaders in homeland security issues across the nation.
- Spotlight: An interview with an expert in a hot issue that affects homeland security.
- Perspectives: The co-hosts provide analysis of that day’s show — What we learned, what surprised us, what it all means.
- Homeland Security at Home: An opportunity for leaders and authorities in your area to provide their insights into homeland security issues.

Broadcasts and streams

Streams online Tuesdays at 7 p.m. Central at <http://kamu-fm.tamu.edu/live.php>. Airs Tuesdays at 7 p.m Central on KAMU 90.9 FM in College Station.

Just a few of our recent guests

- U.S. Sec. of Homeland Security Michael Chertoff
- Former U.S. Sen. Gary Hart, an early proponent of the need for homeland security
- U.S. Rep. Bennie G. Thompson, chairman, House Committee on Homeland Security
- Former police/fire commissioner, New York City
- Director of intelligence, Department of Energy
- Chief medical officer for DHS
- Director, Transportation Security Administration

Recent guests include (from left) U.S. Sec. of Homeland Security Michael Chertoff, Former U.S. Sen. Gary Hart, U.S. Rep. Bennie G. Thompson, chairman of the House Committee on Homeland Security.

- Former ranking minority member, U.S. House Select Committee on Homeland Security
- Director for non-proliferation at the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.
- 9/11 commissioner/ex-deputy attorney general
- Professor of terrorism and Mid-East studies, National War College.
- Senior associate, Center for Biosecurity at the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center
- Director, Chem/Bio Division, DHS
- Senior fellow, foreign policy, Brookings Institution
- Former deputy assistant secretary of defense
- Directors for each of the Department of Homeland Security’s National Centers of Excellence
- Director of Texas Task Force One
- Deputy director, Council on Foreign Relations
- President of GeoStrategic Analysis in D.C.
- Director of business liaison, DHS
- Director of the National Center for the Study of Terrorism and Responses to Terrorism
- Former director, Defense Intelligence Agency.
- Homeland security reporters for the New York Times, the Washington Post, Congressional Quarterly, USA Today and National Public Radio

KAMU 90.9 FM seeks broadcast partners around the nation to air this important program. To learn more, please contact:

Penny Zent, Station Manager
KAMU 90.9 FM
MS 4244, College Station, TX 77843
Phone: (979) 845-5613
Fax: (979) 845-1643
Email: p-zent@tamu.edu

Produced by KAMU 90.9 FM at Texas A&M University in College Station